Beautiful Art in Avondale Office

The wall hanging in the lobby with the lamb was given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunlap in memory of their daughter Julie Dunlap Scism. An artist in Asheville made it. Scott Coble made the wood frame especially for it. We have used it in the past for baptisms when we were in the Sanctuary.

Another Beautiful Quilt at Avondale

Have you noticed the beautiful framed quilt hanging in the hallway of the church office? This quilt was given to the church by Eve and Harris Morris. Her mother made the squares in 1952 and it was put together as a quilt in the 1990's.

Avondale Quilt

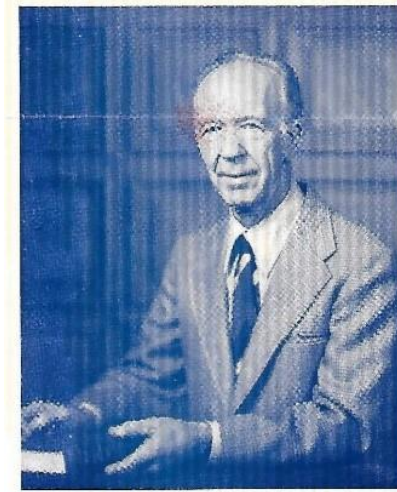

Have you noticed the quilt that hangs in our church office behind the front desk? That beautiful piece of art was made for Avondale's 50th Anniversary! The opposite side of the quilt holds the signatures of Avondale members. Check back next week to hear about the beautiful framed quilt in the church office hallway.

Building more space...

In 1948, Avondale needed more space for Christian Education, so they purchased an old photographic laboratory from a military base (Morris Field). It was transported to the church and was called "The Hut".

Week of July 22

The Sanctuary we know today..

The sanctuary that we know today was built on two more lots purchased between 1944-1947 at the corner of Avondale Avenue (now Park Road) and Lilac Road. The sanctuary was dedicated on Sunday, July 13, 1947...almost 52 years ago!

Our First Chapel

Avondale began with a chapel that was made from reassembled old lumber from an abandoned schoolhouse near Waxhaw. It was during World War II, so building materials were not available. The chapel had an assembly room and four classrooms. It was heated by a pot-bellied stove.

This is the first building erected on the property.

How Our Church Got its Name

The folks who were founders and the Charter Members of our church would meet on their door stoops or back pitches to discuss the name of the new church.

They settled on Avondale Presbyterian Church because it was located on Avondale Avenue. But wait...our church hasn't moved in 75 years- where is Avondale Avenue??? Well, Avondale Avenue was renamed Park Road, but we remain, as always, Avondale!

Youth Group at Avondale

Youth Group has always been such a strong and meaningful ministry of Avondale. The many years of faith formation, fun and life-long friendships contain stories that need to be remembered and shared! We shared many at the 75th celebration “White Elephant Bingo Night” on May 19, 2019.

Enjoy a video featuring a performance by “Fiji Dave with Earl, Merl and other Earl - The Soggy Mountain Brothers” from the night.
